Welcome to the UCSB Portrait for prospective students and their parents. In an effort to make information about UCSB readily available -- and consistent with our commitment to transparency and accountability -- the UCSB Portrait provides information about UCSB on a range of topics in a format similar to formats used by many colleges and universities. This should enable you to make comparisons between UCSB and other major universities on important characteristics of our educational program. The UCSB Portrait also provides many live links to campus websites and is thus a gateway to your deeper understanding of our campus. Thank you for your interest in UC Santa Barbara.

Student Research and Academic Excellence

The undergraduate experience at Santa Barbara includes abundant opportunity to interact with world-class faculty and graduate students involved in cutting-edge research. Getting involved in a faculty research project, or starting one of your own, is a great way to get the most of your UCSB education. The campus awards approximately $200,000 in research grants to undergraduates each year. Learning experiences beyond the classroom will provide you with new insights and perspectives, and will help establish a firm foundation for the pursuit of an advanced degree or your future career.

Undergraduate Research Opportunities

Examples of UCSB undergraduate research activities

Undergraduate Research and Creative Activities (URCA) Grants
Grants of $1,000 per student, or $2,000 for a group research project, are available for student-initiated projects.

Faculty Research Assistance Program
Opportunities are available for undergraduates to gain valuable research experience while earning academic credit via special research assistance courses.

Internships in Nanosystems Science, Engineering and Technology
Approximately 16 internships are awarded to UCSB transfer students or students attending any California Community College to participate in an 8-week summer research experience at UCSB.

Annual Undergraduate Research Colloquium
The discoveries and accomplishments of undergraduates involved in research and creative activities are recognized each spring at the campus's annual Undergraduate Research Colloquium.

Distinguished Faculty

Many of UCSB's 1,054 faculty members are the recipients of national and international awards and honors. The faculty includes:

5 Nobel Laureates
29 American Academy of Arts & Sciences Members
32 National Academy of Sciences Members
24 National Academy of Engineering Members
39 American Association for the Advancement of Science Fellows

100% of the permanent faculty have PhD or equivalent degrees.

Graduate Education

UC Santa Barbara is home to over 55 graduate programs with a rich tradition of interdisciplinary work. The combination of world class faculty, renowned research facilities and a stunning oceanside setting make graduate study at UCSB second to none.

UC Santa Barbara has some 100 outstanding research units, centers, and institutes that provide innovative research opportunities to almost 3000 graduate students. In addition, the campus attracts distinguished international researchers across the disciplines. UCSB's graduate students also benefit from an intimate faculty to graduate student ratio.

Research

Research Institutes and Centers at UCSB include:

Kavli Institute for Theoretical Physics - internationally renowned among the world's scientists, the KITP brings together diverse groups of theoretical physicists and other scientists to do research in areas of science that are timely, important and intellectually challenging.

National Center for Ecological Analysis & Synthesis - a cross-disciplinary research center that uses existing data to address major fundamental issues in ecology and allied fields, and their application to management and policy.

California NanoSystems Institute - a collaborative center embedded on the UCSB and UCLA campuses, the CNSI facilitates a multidisciplinary approach to develop the information, biomedical and manufacturing technologies that will dominate science and economy in the 21st century.

Marine Science Institute - ranked nationally and internationally as a leader in ocean research, the MSI supports research in 14 disciplines such as marine biology, ocean engineering, physical oceanography, and marine biotechnology.

Carsey-Wolf Center for Film, Television, and New Media - provides an intellectual as well as a physical space in which the university and the media industries interact through classes, research projects, and colloquia.

Institute for Social, Behavioral, and Economic Research - houses 14 research centers representing a wide range of social science and other research concerns. ISBER promotes interdisciplinary work that often blurs the boundaries among the social sciences, the humanities, the behavioral sciences, and, in some cases, the physical and life sciences.

SAGE Center for the Study of the Mind - a catalyst for interdisciplinary study of the relationship of brain and mind, the SAGE Center for the Study of the Mind integrates a wide range of scholarly endeavors and technologies in the humanities, social sciences and the sciences.

Institute for Energy Efficiency - the cleanest power plant is the one you don't build. The Institute for Energy Efficiency leverages UCSB’s expertise in multiple energy-related fields to slow the growth in the global demand for energy by developing key technologies to make energy use more efficient.

UCSB Portrait
UC Santa Barbara's mission statement describes the campus as a leading research institution that also provides a comprehensive liberal arts learning experience. Because teaching and research go hand in hand at UCSB, our students are full participants in an educational journey of discovery that stimulates independent thought, critical reasoning, and creativity. Our academic community of faculty, students, and staff is characterized by a culture of interdisciplinary collaboration that is responsive to the needs of our multicultural and global society.

In addition, our Division of Student Affairs promotes community on campus with its program of "Scholarship, Leadership, and Citizenship." The major tenets of this program are:

- Respect and consideration in interactions with others
- Integrity in academic pursuits
- Free, open, and respectful exchange of ideas

Other community-building initiatives sponsored by the Division of Student Affairs include intensified safety programming and a greater campus presence in Isla Vista, renewed efforts in leadership training, promotion of civic responsibility, and a formal ceremonial induction of new students into our community of scholars.

The Alcohol & Drug Program operated by Student Health Services includes classes, counseling services, early intervention and referral programs, and other efforts aimed at ensuring the health and safety of students.
Students who are actively involved in their own learning and development are more likely to be successful in college. Like most research universities, UCSB offers students a wide variety of opportunities both inside and outside the classroom to become engaged with new ideas, people, and experiences. Institutions measure the effectiveness of these opportunities in a variety of ways to better understand what types of activities and programs students find the most helpful.

Following are selected results from the 2012 University of California Undergraduate Experience Survey (UCUES). The questions have been grouped together in categories that are known to contribute to student learning and development. The results reported below are based on the responses of UCSB seniors who participated in the survey.

Alumni Feedback (Source: 2010 survey of recent baccalaureate degree recipients)

Of respondents currently employed full-time:
- my current job is highly related to my undergraduate major: 34%
- my current job is moderately related to my undergraduate major: 21%
- my current job is slightly related to my undergraduate major: 19%
- my current job is not related to my undergraduate major: 26%
- UCSB prepared me very well or more than adequately for my present occupation: 60%
- UCSB prepared me adequately for my present occupation: 30%
- UCSB prepared me less than adequately or poorly for my present occupation: 10%

Of respondents who went on to graduate or professional school:
- UCSB prepared me very well or more than adequately for graduate/professional school: 74%
- UCSB prepared me adequately for graduate/professional school: 22%
- UCSB prepared me less than adequately or poorly for graduate/professional school: 4%

Of respondents who were currently enrolled in a graduate or professional program:
- Masters: 49%
- Doctorate: 31%
- Credential/Certificate/Other: 43%

(Total exceeds 100% because some graduate programs lead to more than one degree)

Alumni Satisfaction:
- Percent of alumni who were satisfied with the overall UCSB experience: 93%
- Percent of alumni who were satisfied with the UCSB academic experience: 90%
- Percent of alumni who were satisfied with the UCSB social experience: 89%
- Percent of alumni who would recommend UCSB: 90%

Learning Outcomes

The University of California, Santa Barbara holds to the fundamental principle that student learning outcomes and their assessment should be locally defined, discipline specific and faculty driven. Through periodic and systematic academic program reviews of undergraduate and graduate education, evidence of student learning, retention and completion is presented; and analyses by program faculty, faculty administrators and peer reviewers are undertaken with the goal of continuous program improvement, and the improvement of curricula and pedagogy.
