UPPER-DIVISION MAJOR

36 UD Religious Studies units are required, distributed as follows:

A. Cultural Areas and Traditions ........................................................................................................................................... 24

6 courses (24 units) chosen from the following five areas, including at least 3 courses (12 units) in one area of emphasis and at least 2 courses (8 units) in a second area of emphasis:

5. Comparative and Thematic Studies: By petition students may combine any courses from upper-division Areas A and B to create a custom comparative or thematic course of study (see the Department Undergraduate Advisor for more information).

B. Topics in the Study of Religion ................................................................................................................................. 8

C. Capstone Experience ......................................................................................................................................................... 4

All students must complete Problems in the Study of Religion (Rg St 104) in their Junior or Senior year or write a Senior Honors Thesis (Rg St 195) under the guidance of a faculty advisor. The department recommends that all students complete Rg St 104 in their Junior year and that honors students complete Rg St 104 in addition to writing a Senior Honors Thesis.

Notes: 1) Upper-division courses listed above in more than one area can be applied only to one area.

2) Up to 4 upper-division units from related courses in other departments may be applied to the major by petition.

3) Up to 4 units of Rg St 199 (Independent Study) may apply toward Area A of the upper-division major.
